THE ACCENT RULE, ONCE

MORNING PRAYER

O Lord, open thou our lips; and our mouth shall show forth thy praise.

History — Begin

A rubric: text, a hairline, or one filled control. Brass means do this.

MORNING PRAYER

O Lord, open thou our lips; and our mouth shall show forth thy praise.

History — Begin

Not this. Never a tinted surface, never a brass border, never three accented things in one card.

ON PAPER, THE SAME RULE

MORNING PRAYER

O Lord, open thou our lips; and our mouth shall show forth thy praise.

History — Begin

The lighter hover step belongs to filled controls here; a text link on paper hovers by underline, since the lighter brass falls under 4.5:1 on this ground.
